Harbour House Villa, Island of Brac, Split Riviera

Sleeps 4 + 2 | 2 Double Bedrooms plus Sofa bed | 1 Bathroom

Description

Harbour House is a lovely Croatian villa in a unique harbour-side position in the popular village of Bol on the Island of Brac, near Split. Bol is a magnet for visitors from all over the world because of its proximity to Zlatni Rat [Golden Horn] Beach and its fantastic water sports facilities.

Constructed of white Brac stone [the White House in Washington is built of this], and in the heart of the village, the house feels spacious and airy with panoramic views of the harbour and the sea from every window and its large terrace. The house is close to the open-air farmers' market, the bakery, pharmacy, post office, supermarket and bank. A little local beach is 30 metres away and five minutes around the coastal road is the Monastery Beach [the Dominican monastery with its art collection is nearby].

Air-conditioned, the house has two large bedrooms [king-sized beds] and there is a truckle bed in the terrace sitting room which turns into two full sized single beds [one pulls out from underneath the other]. There is a cot, with bedding, for a young child and there is a deep shower tub in the bathroom for bathing children. Although Bol is a lively village this is not a problem in Harbour House because of its double-glazing and secondary double-glazing.

The large kitchen has a dishwasher, washing machine, frig/freezer and full sized electric cooker with oven. There is plentiful kitchen equipment and china in the cupboards, together with a large cedarwood table and six dining chairs.
