Milna

Milna is located on the western part of the island of Brac, only 18 kilometers from Supetar port it is just one of those stunningly beautiful places that remain in your memory, its sleepy atmosphere reminiscent of what Mediterranean villages used to be like years ago.

There is a lovely marina with several berths which attracts many a famous name arriving on their fabulous super yachts, so great for people watching from the lovely little cafes and restaurants surrounding the harbour.

Get up with the sun to watch the fishermen coming in with their beautiful catch, providing the lovely restaurants with fresh fish. The harbour front cafes reverberate with the animated sounds of the men playing the traditional card games whilst the women are beckoned to the guided church by the peeling of the bells.

The 17th century town is set at the foot of a deep natural harbour that was used by the Emperor Diocletian on his way to Split. Paths and walks take you around the harbour which is studded with coves and rocky beaches that are usually deserted. Besides the picture perfect setting, there's the 18th century Church of our Lady of the Annunciation with baroque front and early-18th-century altar paintings. The steps of the church are often accommodating an elderly lady and her husband selling the best cherries at the best price.

The villa is situated at the top of the hill in Milna hence the great views – however it does mean you have to park down in the centre and walk up 75 steps to get there – so we would not recommend it for people with mobility problems or young families with pushchairs.
